

I have been a subscriber of XM Radio, a satellite radio broadcaster, for 3 years. I pay a monthly subscription fee for this radio service and feel I have received good value for my money.

I also listen to local radio stations when they have programing that interests me. I do business with their advertisers when they have products or services that are of value to me.

The point is that I should be the judge of which stations I listen to for news or entertainment, not a governmental regulatory agency, or industry lobby group. The NAB's petition 04-160 should be rejected and XM Radio should be allowed to broadcast what and where they want.

Sincerely, Richard Anderson
